

AMTHAL MOVES FIRE SAFETY AND SECURITY FOR ABELS

Amthal has worked in partnership with Abels Moving Services Ltd to deliver an all-encompassing take over and upgrade of the fire safety and security solution at its central site.

Based in London, Abels Moving Services is one of the UK's leading specialist international moving companies. Recognized for its high commitment to quality, since 1988 and renewed in 2016, it has held a royal warrant to Her Majesty the Queen for removals and storage services.

With specialist teams also renowned for looking after antiques and specialist items, safe and secure storage is a top priority for Abels. The company has kept true to its mission to be the premier moving company in its chosen niche markets.

When opening their new warehouse an Abels undertook a full risk assessment on fire systems and security, which recommended changes. Abels sourced Amthal, to supply and upgrade all systems across the site, right from perimeter gate automation through to access control, CCTV, intruder alarms and overall fire safety.

James Mehmet, Abels Relocation Manager – London says: "Abels has helped to move thousands of happy customers since the company was founded in 1958".

"With such a reputation for high-quality to maintain, we have a duty to make sure security and fire safety systems on site are on point. Within this, we have regular risk assessments as part of our maintenance programme and when it was recommended to update our systems, we had no hesitation in moving forward.

"Amthal was a very professional local company who worked directly with us to take over the fire safety and security on site, advising us on all activity undertaken. Cont/d...
