

Amthal Secures Mitsubishi Electric Contract

Amthal has been awarded a new support contract with global technology leaders Mitsubishi Electric Europe B.V, to upgrade and maintain security solutions at its UK Head Office, and across its regional UK offices.

As one of the world's leading names in the manufacture and sales of electrical products and systems, Mitsubishi Electric has eight regional offices, including its UK Head Office in Hatfield, supporting over 700 staff members.

The new contract with Amthal covers the provision of support and maintenance across each of Mitsubishi Electric's sites, to ensure security arrangements, including CCTV, intruder alarm and access control, are maintained to the highest level and upgraded quickly where required.

Says Karen Kelsall, Mitsubishi Electric Business Services Team – Facilities Coordinator: "Each of our UK office locations has its own security arrangements that must be maintained on a regular basis. We needed to source a reliable company that could not only achieve this requirement but also ensure we continue to offer our staff and visitors complete peace of mind at their place of work.

"Amthal proved themselves even before the contract was signed, responding to several different site requests quickly, with true technical capability and professionalism. Plus, being a local company to our Head Offices makes a difference to ensuring an efficient and sustainable supplier service, that we look forward to building."

Jamie Allam, Commercial Director Amthal Fire & Security added: "This contract award is extremely significant for Amthal, not only to be associated with such a global brand, but also to demonstrate our commitment to our customers, both new and existing.
